Why Mediate

Mediation utilizes trained professionals who are neutral and help the parties first identify issues and then seek peaceful solutions. The solutions are shaped by the parties to fit their lives rather than being mandated by a court.

Mediation almost always takes less time to resolve the conflict than litigation and at a fraction of the cost.

Mediation provides a safe, confidential atmosphere in which the parties can express their ideas, concerns and solutions without fear. A trial in the court system is adversarial and public.

Mediated agreements are legally binding and have a higher rate of continuing success than decisions handed down by a court.

Goals

Bourdeau Conflict Relief will ensure a level playing field where both parties have the opportunity to tell their side of the story, make decisions that work for them and have their conflict resolved in a timely manner.

Philosophy

Mediation is an emotionally effective alternative to what could be a long, costly court battle.

Through mediation the parties learn effective communication skills which will then be used throughout their lives making them better partners as well as parents.

Mediation will preserve and enhance relationships by creating a win-win situation. There is no loser in mediation.
